British Bombers in Fourth Successive Two-Way Assault
Which Coincides With Additional Strikes Against
Military Installations in Northwestern Europe.

By John E. Lee

LONDON, June 2.—(INS)—German-operated railway facilities both in occupied France and the Balkans were hammered early today by British bombers in the fourth successive two-way assault which coincided with additional strikes against vital Nazi military installations in Northwestern Europe.

While British-based night raiders struck at the Saumur railroad yards southwest of Tours, for the second straight day, Italy-based planes hit at rail targets near Szolnok which is southeast of Budapest.

RAF Wellingtons, Halifaxes and Liberators carried out the strike against the Hungarian targets, while the British-based planes hit at Saumur and enemy military objectives in the so-called "invasion coast" area of France.

The Air Ministry, amplifying a previous announcement that the RAF bombers were over "occupied territory" during the night, said that "military objectives" near the French invasion coast were hit again. For the last few days, those same Nazi installations have undergone their most savage bombardments of the war.

The railroad yards of Saumur, some 38 miles southwest of Tours, again were raided. They had been hit along with two other key French rail centers 24 hours before.

Speedy plywood mosquito bombers bombed an objective in Nazi-occupied Denmark, while other planes placed mines in enemy-held waters.

Not a single British plane was lost in the widespread night operations.

Pope Expresses Hope Rome Will Be Spared

LONDON, June 2.—(INS)—Pope Pius XII today reiterated his hope that Rome will be spared from the ravages of war, adding that "whoever lifts a hand" against the Eternal City would be "guilty of matricide."

Addressing the College of Cardinals the Pope, in a broadcast over the Vatican radio and heard in London, said:

"We hope that, at all costs, Rome will be saved from becoming a theatre of war. In the past year the conflict has reached grave and atrocious proportions.

"Whoever lifted a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide."

The supreme pontiff went on to declare that "in the midst of much pain" greater care has been taken in air attacks "against inner areas of Rome."

"Our mission at the present moment," he declared, "is to save the family of mankind and prepare it for a saner future."

The world's future aim, the Pope said, should be to insure a peace which is "tolerable for all nations."

"We hope," he declared, "that, whilst the war is proceeding and whilst methods of warfare are growing ever fiercer, this sound consideration will not eventually be replaced by vengeance and anger."

Co. Commissioners Answer Questions for Realtors

DOYLESTOWN, June 2.—Bucks County Real Estate Board had as its guests at a "tax session" last evening a number of Bucks County officials. Included were the three county commissioners, John S. Roberts, Jr., president, Simon K. Moyer and Edward C. Hancock; also Ernest H. Harvey, chief clerk for the commissioners; Isaac J. VanArtsdalen, Esq., president of Bucks County Bar Association and attorney for the commissioners; and Edward Watson, chief assessor of the county.

President of the county realtors group, Richard W. Fechtenburg, of Edgington, presided at the regular meeting and also at the session of the board of directors which preceded the dinner in the Fountain House.

A number of questions revolving about taxes, assessments, etc., were thoroughly discussed. The realtors sought information of the county commissioners on a variety of items, such as tax collections, tax sales and deeds, standardized tax procedure, and other matters. The viewpoint of the commissioners on a number of these subjects was explained by Mr. VanArtsdalen.

The purpose of the realty board, it was stated, is to endeavor to work out a simpler method of handling certain tax matters, one improvement being possibility of one tax notice instead of three.

A resolution was passed to the effect that the county real estate board after consultation with the county commissioners will in turn present a resolution to the Penna. Real Estate Board at its October convention, asking state authorities to appoint a commission to study the entire tax situation.

The realtors plan for their annual picnic to be held on June 28th at the home of the secretary, Otto Grupp, Jr., Edgington. Games, swimming, canoeing, rowing will be included. A Bucks County Smorgasbord is also to be an attraction.

Over 100 Farmers Bid On Garden Tractor

DOYLESTOWN, June 2.—Owing to O. P. A. rulings concerning ceiling prices for farm machinery, tillers of the soil in Bucks county entered the gambling stage yesterday in a frantic effort to get a much-needed tractor.

At least a hundred of the 400 farmers and farm women attending a public sale of farm machinery at the home of Paul H. Schmitz, near Rushland, bid on a garden tractor. A lot more could have been received for it but the ceiling price was set at $117 by the O. P. A. and Auctioneer E. Newlin Brown and Agent J. Carroll Molloy, of Doylestown, placed the names of all the bidders in a hat and the purchaser was selected by lot.

FOR THE PAST TEN YEARS WE HAVE BEEN THREATENED, CAJOLED, AND FINALLY PUSHED DOWN PATH TO DICTATORSHIP, SAYS SPEAKER

Harold J. Poad, divisional sales manager of the American Sales Book Co., was the guest speaker before the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club in the Elks' Home, yesterday afternoon, when he spoke on the subject, "Trends in America."

"For the past ten years we have been alternately threatened, cajoled, and finally pushed down the path to dictatorship. That breath-taking statement comes from one of our leading senators of today, none other than Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia," Poad said.

The address of Mr. Poad follows: "There are some dates in history which stand out vividly in our memory. Whenever we hear the year 1492 we immediately think of the discovery of America, by Columbus.

"We associate other dates in like manner. For instance, Dec. 25th we know as Christmas, the birthday of Christ. Washington's birthday of Feb. 22nd requires no special talent of memory. 1918 is a year long to be remembered—the end of World

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

1750 American Planes Pummel Pas de Calais Area

London—A vast armada of some 1750 American warplanes pummeled the Pas de Calais area of the French invasion coast by daylight today. The aerial fleet, including some 1000 bombers and 750 fighters, carried out its assault on the heels of the fourth straight two-way night blasting of the continent.

The after dark assaults were aimed at German railway and military installations in occupied France and the Balkans and were executed by RAF formations from Britain and warplanes of the Mediterranean command.

Hazy weather which had granted the continent a brief respite from heavy daylight bombing yesterday lifted this morning and coastal observers in the neighborhood of Folkestone on the English Channel said bombers and fighters swarmed toward northern France about noon.

The planes headed in various directions, the fighters mainly toward the Cap Gris Nez area while two big formations of bombers headed southwest toward the Boulogne sector.

Shortly after high-flying medium bombers swept directly across the central portion of the Dover straits, heavy explosions were heard emanating from the oft-bombed "invasion coast" of France.

Germans Get Setback in Italy

Naples—Badly-mauled German divisions in Italy suffered a two-phased setback today when American troops of the Fifth Army crashed their way into Velletri, keystone of the Nazis' Rome defense line and smashed the main escape route of the Germans to the south.

Fifth Army troops slashed through heavy resistance to cut the Via Casilina near the German stronghold of Valmontone, blocking the main escape route for hordes of Nazis streaming up from the south.

Fierce fighting was touched off in the streets of semi-encircled Velletri when Yank spearheads smashed their way into the city limits.

Both these sectors are the most important of the remaining German defenses south of Rome, extending from Avezzano to the Tyrrhenian Sea.

War I. Few business men will forget the crash year of 1929.

"Some of us can even remember the year in which we were born—and if it happened to be a year of even numbers, such as 1900—we can almost tell you our age.

"The figures 1, 9, 4 and 4 have little meaning in that particular order, but when we put them together and get 1944 we have a date which may live long in the records of history.

"This is a year of momentous importance. We are engaged in a life and death struggle with our enemies abroad. It is possible that this struggle may end very suddenly. If so, the whole world will long remember 1944 as the year World War II ended, because the entire world is involved in the terrible gruesome task of killing men.

"Now here at home, we too, in this year of 1944 are faced with a problem of major importance. Second only to the war effort, that problem is the trend of dictatorship, in this great Republic of ours.

"That is not only a problem for you, who are dyed in the wool Republicans, but it is also a problem for those of you who are followers of the party of Thomas Jefferson. It is a problem for every true blooded American.

"Before getting too far along in my remarks—I think you will be interested to learn that there still has been no confirmation of the rumor that Franklin and Eleanor will constitute the Democratic ticket this year. I understand the reason there has been no confirmation, is because Eleanor is never home long enough to confirm anything.

"I want to deal with a few facts and figures. The figures will be small enough for all of us to understand because by now, we are all accustomed to talking in the billions.

"For the past ten years we have been alternately threatened, cajoled, and finally pushed down the path to dictatorship. That breath-taking statement comes from one of our leading Senators of today—none other than Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

"It is necessary that a statement as frank and bold as that one be supported with facts and concrete evidence. Let's trace the path and see how it all happened.

Staff Sgt. Rice Has Had Thrills in Pacific

A soldier, whose family resides in Bristol Township, has had many and varied experiences since his arrival in the South Pacific theatre of war, over a year ago.

The young man, Staff Sgt. George Rice, an engineer-gunner on a Mitchell bomber, has piled up over 50 combat missions and has flown over every enemy stronghold in the area.

The squadron of which Rice is a member, had the distinction of being the first medium bombardment unit in the 13th Army Air Force to operate in the South Pacific theatre. Spending the first three months in the systematic destruction of enemy shipping, the Mitchells succeeded in cutting the enemy life line in that area. One strike, which is still the topic of conversation among Rice and his companions is the attack they made on an enemy cruiser late last summer. A flight of eight Mitchell bombers looking for trouble, sighted the Jap warship, and immediately swept down for the kill. Rice took his station for his primary duty of aerial gunner, and manned the twin machine guns in his compartment. As his plane released the bombs and skipped over the doomed cruiser, he let loose a long burst of tracer and incendiary bullets, many of which made their mark. It wasn't two minutes after the last plane had made its attack that the ship began its voyage to the bottom.

As the battle for Solomon Islands continued, Rice participated in every major blow against enemy strongholds from New Georgia to the Bismarck Archipelago. Medium altitude and low level bombing and strafing attacks became just part of a day's work. The proof of their effectiveness lays in the present unhappy plight of the Japanese in the South Pacific.

Sgt. Rice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rice. He graduated from Langhorne high school prior to his entrance in the Army in January, 1942. He has been presented the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf Clusters for meritorious achievement while participating on combat missions.

FREE ENTERPRISE

The Indiana Manufacturers' Association recognizes that when war orders cease to provide employment, business must utilize all of its ingenuity and resourcefulness to assure plenty of work at adequate wages. Business is planning to that end now and hundreds of industries are reported to have products in the blueprint stage that they never manufactured before.

The extent to which this program can be adopted depends, the Indiana Manufacturers' Association believes, upon what government does and the attitude of organized labor's leaders. The association has issued a statement in which it urges that free enterprise be given a fair trial. It says:

"The issues should be clearly defined now so that people in all walks of life may decide between government control of everything and everybody, and free competitive enterprise. Otherwise we may enter the postwar period on the false assumption that free enterprise will supply jobs, only to discover that the American system is not able to function because of restrictions beyond its control."

Left-wingers are determined that the hold government now has on business shall not be relinquished. The leaders of this school, having had little practical experience of their own, seem to feel that prosperity and the good of labor depend upon continued interference by boards, bureaus and commissions.

Here, as the Indiana Manufacturers' Association declares, is a clear issue that people in all walks of life should decide. The question is whether government shall continue to restrict and hamper free enterprise, or give it a chance to take up the postwar slack.

APPROACHING HARVEST

There is a thrill to the sight of heading wheat that is above description of even those who have experienced it for years. When beards peep through boots and the stalks, swayed by wind as waves on seas, begin their rustling songs, people in the wheat country spot their thoughts on a coming harvest.

They are doing that in Kansas today. First reports spark the imagination. Supt. R. C. Wilder of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, reflects a harvest atmosphere after a wheat inspection trip. Wherever he went the talk is wheat, how much it will yield to the acre, what it will test and protein content.

In two weeks the harvest will be under way in southern Kansas, and although much can happen to some wheat in two weeks, it cannot happen to all the wheat. The great expanse of prairie land will yield a bumper crop, the rail executive feels certain. Empty cars have been started to the wheatlands and division superintendents are wondering if there will be train crews to haul strings of loaded grain cars to market.

Most women in industry will return home after the war, a survey discloses. Expecting to find the dishes washed.

GOOD SEALS HELP TO HALT FAILURES IN FAMILY CANNING

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)
Are you ready to can asparagus? Asparagus in Bucks County is now being cut. Let's can some of this vegetable.

Many difficulties that homemakers encountered in their canning last year were due to wartime jars, lids and rubbers. Manufacturers have been studying problems brought to their attention and offer some suggestions on using canning equipment successfully.

Difficulty in getting seals was probably the most common complaint among homemakers. In many jars the seal is made at the edge or opening of the jar instead of on the shoulder such as the old type mason jar. This means that the edge must be even and free from nicks and cracks. To detect flaws, run your finger around the edge or turn the jar upside down on a table to see if it sets evenly.

Occasionally a metal lid with composition rubber ring attached is too large for the screw band. Before using, slip the metal lid into the screw band to see if the lid fits in tightly. If the lid is too large, the screw band won't exert the same amount of pressure on all parts of the jar edge and a perfect seal won't be made.

Commercial jars, such as those used for salad dressing or peanut butter, may be used for canning fruits and tomatoes. These jars do not have a wide shoulder as regular jars for canning have so will not hold in place a rubber ring and zinc top lid. The edge seal lids, such as the metal lid with rubber ring attached or the three-piece cover with glass lid, small rubber ring, and metal screw band, should be used.

To prevent screw bands from rusting during storage, remove them from the jars 12 to 24 hours after the jars have cooled. By removing the bands, the lids also can be tested to see if a good seal was made.

Filling jars too full is another cause for poor seals. Pint jars should be filled to within a half inch from the top and quart jars one inch from the top. If jars are too full, the food may run over the neck of the jar and prevent an edge seal type of lid from sealing. Always wipe off carefully the neck of the jar with a clean cloth before putting on the lid. Small particles of food on the top of the jar may prevent a perfect seal.

Another complaint from homemakers is that rubber rings used last year gave foods an odor. To prevent an occurrence of that this year, it is suggested that the rubber rings be scrubbed with a brush in hot soapy water. Then for each dozen rings add a tablespoon of soda to a quart of water and boil the rings 5 minutes in the solution. Rinse well before using. Start with fresh soda and water for each lot of rings.

WOODBINE, N. J.—(INS)—Two major oil companies have leased ground in southern New Jersey for test drilling operations, Dr. Joseph Levenson, mayor of Woodbine, revealed today. Sun Oil and Sinclair are understood to be paying 10 cents an acre a year for drilling rights, with land owners to get as much as 12½ per cent of the yield should wells come in.

For the Past 10 Years We Have Been Pushed Toward Dictatorship, Says Speaker

"There are three parts to our Government—the Legislative, to make the laws—the Executive, to carry out the laws—the Judiciary, to enforce the laws.

"The first step to gain control was the Supreme Court packing. Fortunately, we had a Congress, which wouldn't stand for that kind of business. They wouldn't stand for it, because we flooded them with letters, and telegrams, opposed to such a movement. Still, by reason of the Administration's long term of office, all except two of the Justices have now been appointed by the President. (By the way—who is that President?)

"The next step was the attempted Senatorial purge, designed to prevent the re-election of those who did not see eye to eye with the President. Those who had refused to be yes men. This time, the public, aroused to indignation, handed out a stinging defeat by re-electing as you remember, Senator Tydings of Maryland, and Senator George of Georgia. Had this effort of the President succeeded, he would have continued his purge to defeat every member of the Congress who dared express disagreement with his wishes.

"Now when this failed, folks, there was the attempt to abolish the office of the Comptroller General—the only independent auditing office of our whole government. Here, too, there was a defeat for which we can all be thankful.

"But that desire for power, that craving and longing, was still there—still determined. An ingenious method of by-passing Congress was conceived. The real power of Congress over the executive department is the control of the purse. The New Deal overcame this by creating government corporations, which are allowed to issue bonds, and disperse public funds, as the President sees fit. There are 57 of these corporations today—and the thirty billions of dollars which they have spent, has never been authorized by Congress. That is something to think about.

"In the past three years the government has spent twenty-five billions of dollars, in building plants and facilities for industrial production. The Auditor General has never been allowed to go over the books.

"In the past ten years, the records show that over 3600 executive orders have been issued by the President. Do you realize that this is many times the number of executive orders that have been issued from the time of our first President, George Washington, down to the time of the present administration.

"By contrast to these 3600 executive orders, only 4300 public laws were enacted by Congress during the same period of time. These figures clearly define the path about which I have been speaking. Practically one executive order for every law enacted by Congress.

"Some of the orders issued are of the type not to the liking of the American people. The recent coal strike is an example. The miners desired higher wages—they struck—now very few people will disagree with the fact that the miners were entitled to more money. They were working for the maximum amount of $45 a week as compared to war industry employees making double that amount. All negotiations broke down until Mr. Lewis stepped into the back door of the White House—the result—the miners were granted the same identical raise in pay which had previously been refused by the government agencies who should have handled it.

"History demonstrates that the deepest impulse of bureaucracy is to grow—to take in more territory—extend its authority—expand its payroll. Let's see how well this lesson was learned.

"The development of the OPA is a good example. It began in April 1941 with a staff of 84. By its first birthday the staff numbered more than 8,000. By its second anniversary it had a nation wide network of 198 offices, employing 90,000 persons.

"Suppose we take a look at the number of Federal employees. Here is a real eye opener. Our Federal Government today now carries more than 3,300,000 employees on its payroll, exclusive of all military operations. That's a lot of people. Can you picture it? To get a better idea let's think in terms of the Franklin Field Stadium right here in Philadelphia. The stadium will hold 70,000 people. Now to accommodate the number of employees on the Government payroll means that it would be necessary to fill Franklin Stadium 47 times.

"The State Government of Ohio employs 25,000 people while the Federal Government in that same State employs 90,000 full time workers. Here in Pennsylvania the State employs only 44,500 and the Federal Government finds it necessary to use 215,000. A ratio of almost 5 to 1.

"Winston Churchill in the early stages of the war said the following about the RAF, 'Never in the history of the world had so many owed so much to so few.' Someone the other day made the following statement about the number of Federal employees—'Never before have so many done so little so expensively so long.'

"Now some of you may be wondering why I am talking on a subject such as this. I want to make it perfectly clear that I am not interested in politics. I have no political ambitions, neither elective nor appointive. If I were interested in promoting one party as against the other I certainly wouldn't waste time in my own county of Montgomery trying to sell the Republican party here—you know local conditions as well as I do. If I were trying to promote the Democratic party I think I'd stay as far away as possible from this same county.

"I am however interested in the future of our country and I am selfish enough in my own future to be concerned. Years ago it was possible for a man to work hard and by careful planning and frugal living be able to provide for the days of retirement or old age, for himself and his family. That's one of the first laws of nature. But can we make such plans with the trends of today with some of the figures you have just heard?

"In 1933 the cost of the Federal employees on the pay-roll amounted to $75,000,000 a month. The cost of this program today is $522,000,000, or an increase of $447,000,000 a month. This adds up to the staggering sum of $5,364,000,000 a year for just the increase over what our costs were in 1933. That's the cost of the employees on the pay-roll—not the war debt. Instead of looking for new ways of raising money—new ways of increasing taxes—a timely step and in the right direction would be the elimination of this costly program. It is costing every taxpayer in America $125 a year.

"Now we might dismiss some of these figures by saying that we are at war—that they are necessary—and that they are of a temporary nature only. Unfortunately we cannot be consoled by this suggestion because we have found from experience it doesn't work that way.

"We recall vividly that during the period 1933-1936 every new program was established as an emergency. That within a reasonable length of time they could be abandoned, done away with. Instead, the depression emergency merged smoothly with the greater war emergency and now we hear the war emergency will be merged with the greater peace effort. Rationing will be continued and price control will be continued.

"A study of some of the European countries, Germany and Italy for instance, discloses that confusion is the greatest destroyer of morale. One of the greatest weaknesses of our national morale at the moment is the feeling of doubt and fear, arising out of confusion, a confusion which affects not only the whole of the home front, but the whole prospect of peace, demobilization and readjustment.

"The people are confused. They are confused by the existence of 13 agencies handling labor problems. They are confused by the long, incredible muddling over manpower and Selective Service. The recent experience is one of which we are all aware. I have had several men who have broken up their homes, sold their cars, sent their families back to their fathers and mothers, and then at the last minute told they weren't needed.

"Look at the I-F uncertainty for example. Those people don't know—and older men in the draft brackets as a whole don't know what plans to make.

"The confusion as to whether there was a shortage of gas, requiring limited traveling—or whether the shortage of rubber was responsible. We still don't know. OPA Administrator Prentiss Brown makes one statement. Petroleum Administrator Ickes makes another.

"The press is currently full of stories and conflict—fighting and bickering between top-flight administrators of the Federal Government. There has been failure to mark out clear lines of responsibility and power for the President's subordinates. Arthur Krock of the New York Times reports that a friend of the President told him, the boss either appoints one man to do four jobs, or four men to do one job—and often, he does both.

"The threat of Government competition is one every man in this room should be concerned about. There are nine Federal Housing and Construction Agencies, sixteen Federal Business and Banking Agencies—and four Federal Transportation agencies. These are only a few. There are many others—such as synthetic rubber and aluminum.

"Now this same New Deal crowd is trying to prove through the courts that all insurance is commerce between the States. You need not be told this is a basic untruth—yet they are still trying to force it down our throats. Once proved, however, insurance too, will come under the control of the Government.

"Pretty soon now, you are going to hear a great deal about swapping horses in the middle of the stream. A lot of new issues will be injected—a lot of new promises will be made—as a diversion—a smoke screen. However the tide has turned. There is evidence of it on every side.

"Recently Congress gave the President four setbacks in a row—the soldiers vote—National Service—subsidies and taxes. The evidence in the State of Colorado—where a Republican was elected to Congress the first time this has happened since 1939. And the men of the President's own party are getting fed up. Not long ago we heard an explosion in Congress by the majority leader of the Senate, Mr. Alben Barkley, in protest against the veto of the tax bill.

"No, gentlemen—there is no need to change horses in this great country of ours. The horse is fine—it's the driver that needs to be changed.

"1944 may be known in history as the year World War II ended—but it can be known as the year dictatorship ended in this great republic of ours. Now you ask me—what can you do about it?—that's a very natural question—what can you do about it? Well, I'll tell you one thing you can do—you can start thinking about it this very moment—you can be very conscious of the fact that you have an important part to play—you can speak to your friends and the people you do business with—and your Congressman—whatever you do, don't forget him. You can tell him in no uncertain terms that you are sick and tired of this one-man government—that you have had your bellies full of dictatorship.

"Now, if you will do this—you will have every reason to be proud of the part which you shall have taken—to preserve this—your country—and your kind of government—and your children will be very, very grateful."

Sale of two large parcels of real estate located near the center of Perkusie, by the Sellersville Building & Loan Association, brought to a climax one of the largest exchanges of real estate in the borough in recent years.

It also split up a tract that had been conducted under one business organization for many years. The former hay press building, a garage adjoining it and two dwelling houses, all occupying half an acre of ground, were sold to Stanley Rotenberger, Quakertown, for $5,000.

The other parcel, including all land on the other side of Main street and used by the Sellersville Fuel & Supply Company, was purchased at the same auction by Miss Ruth E. Smith, North Main street, Sellersville.

Young Men of 17

May again join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve

ENLISTMENT in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve is once more open to qualified young Americans . . . who want to win their wings on the "greatest team in the world"—an AAF air combat crew.

In April, thanks to the air-mindedness of America's youth, the AAF's personnel program was well ahead of schedule. More than enough men were in training, and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, to meet scheduled quotas for combat crews. At the same time, the need for men in other branches of the army was urgent. Therefore, opportunities to join the AAF—including the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve—were suspended.

As the Commanding General pointed out, the suspension of enlistments in the Reserve was intended only as a temporary measure. Accordingly, effective June 1, enlistments have again been opened in the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve in order to insure a sufficient number of qualified individuals for training this fall.

The AAF is a Team

Today, the AAF is the largest, most powerful air force in the world. Fighting side by side with the planes of our Navy and our Allies, it has won control of the air in every theatre—and has carried the war to the military and industrial hearts of Germany and Japan. It is daring the enemy to "come up and fight." Yet its losses have been less than anyone had anticipated or even dared to hope.

That all this has been accomplished is due, in large measure, to the fact that the

AAF air combat crew is more than just planes and men. The combat crew is a team . . . the greatest fighting team the world has ever seen . . . with Gunners, Bombardiers, Navigators and Pilots flying and fighting together, to win.

And any young man who wants AAF wings should keep this ideal of teamwork uppermost in his mind. It is the key to AAF successes in battle. It will be the key to his own success in the AAF.

If you want to fly with the AAF, you may apply at any AAF Examining Board for enrollment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. Upon passing the preliminary qualifying physical and mental tests, you will become a member of the U. S. Army Air Forces—on inactive duty. This means that you will not be called for training until you have reached your 18th birthday. If you are at work you may remain on the job until you are 18. If you are in high school, you may elect to finish the semester you are in when you become 18. If you are a high school graduate, not over 17 years and 9 months, you may elect to take advantage of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, which provides free college training for men approaching military age.

When called, you will first be given "basic" training. During this period, you will take "aptitude" tests to determine whether you will be classified for training as Gunner, Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot.

Your Place on the AAF Team

If you have an outstandingly high aptitude rating for a particular position, you may be given an opportunity to compete for the classification that you prefer. But it is important to remember that all jobs on the AAF team are vitally important . . . that air combat crews not only are chosen from the very cream of the nation's young men, but that each seat in every plane must be filled by the man best qualified to fill it.

Gunners go into actual combat as non-commissioned officers. In addition to being the world's best aerial marksmen, gunners may qualify as trained technicians—in radio, armament or airplane mechanics. Pilots, Navigators, and Bombardiers are graduated from training as 2nd Lieutenants or Flight Officers.

Your job, and your rank, in the AAF will depend upon your own demonstrated abilities. For full information as to qualifying for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, see your nearest AAF Examining Board or local Army Recruiting Station.

For Pre-Aviation Training

Whether or not you have yet reached 17, you can begin now to prepare yourself to qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. See your local Civil Air Patrol officers about C.A.P. Cadet Training . . . also see your High School principal or adviser about recommended courses in the Air Service Division of the High School Victory Corps. Both offer excellent pre-aviation training . . . and help point the way to AAF wings.

As we come into Thy presence, Eternal Father, it is with a deep realization of our need for a strength which is more than human. We find ourselves insufficient for the tasks of the day. Our vision is so narrow, our judgment so faulty, our wisdom so incomplete. We are becoming more and more conscious of our shortcomings and our failures, and if we recognize them, how grievous must they appear in Thy sight. Forgive us, and help us, we pray. Teach us that we are strong, when in weakness we throw ourselves upon Thee. Teach us that we shall enjoy the greatest liberty when we are in most complete bondage to Thee. Teach us that to lose self is to gain power and influence. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

CUTTING CORNERS SAVES TIME IN THE EXECUTION OF WORK

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

Bucks County homemakers who are streamlining their work are pleased to find how much time and how many steps they can save, reports Mrs. Fleetham, home economics extension representative. Here are some of the things they are doing:

They are asking each member of the family to co-operate by keeping his toys, books, and clothes in their proper places. Older persons are also making their beds before going to school or to work.

Cleaning, laundry, and kitchen equipment and supplies are being grouped near places where they will be used. Cupboard and refrigerator shelves are being arranged so the contents can be reached without unnecessary shifting of dishes and containers.

Homemakers also are watching how they do small jobs, such as paring potatoes, to see if they can improve their methods. It is the saving of time and energy doing the little things that add up to the extra hour or so saved each day. An hour saved every day over a year's time means 15 days or the length of a two weeks' vacation.

McDEVITT-DEAN IN PITCHERS' DUEL ON BENSELEM FIELD

Voltz Nine Noses Out The Badenhausen Team To Win Game

FINAL SCORE IS 4 TO 3

McDevitt Allows Five Hits; Dean Gives Seven

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 2.—Joe McDevitt and Paul Dean participated in a pitching duel last evening on the Bensalem high school field as the Voltz-Texaco team nosed out Badenhausen, 4-3, in a Bristol Suburban League contest.

McDevitt allowed the Baddies five hits while Dean permitted the winners seven hits. Two errors in the seventh inning gave the gas-cleers the tilt after the iron-workers had deadlocked the score in the last half of the sixth.

The Voltz team was first to score when Ritter singled and Dewsnap doubled in the third and both came home on Leigh's hit. The lead was short-lived, however, for in the last half of the inning the Cornwells team tied it when after Ervin and Stark had hit safely, Trapp came through with a triple.

Voltz went ahead again in the fifth when McDevitt socked a long triple to left and was "squeezed" home on Dewsnap's bunt. Badenhausen again deadlocked the score in the sixth when Stackhouse tripled and scored on a hit by Prall.

Dougherty reached base on an error in the seventh and advanced on an infield out. When Dewsnap's grounder was muffed up, Dougherty crossed the plate with the winning tally.

As the Alcoa team won over Diamond, 3-2, on the Rohm and Haas field, the league race tightened up with only one game separating first and last place. Joe Sagolla started on the mound for Diamond and was relieved by Danny Keegan in the fourth. "Bill" Foster, of Alcoa, held the Diamond lads to three hits.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Salt water fishing . . . if there are any fish in Great Bay off the Tuckerton wireless station they are still there, Ralph and I fished it Sunday. Plenty of halibut fish and eels, but no croak ers. Parties at other shore points reported like catches. Probably a little early yet for good bay fishing there. Ralph claimed we fished the wrong time of day, used the wrong bait, and fished the wrong spots!

New bounty rates . . . for the year beginning July 15, the earliest date any change can become effective under the law, were established by the Game Commission at its recent meeting.

The bounty on weasels was increased to $1.00. A reward of $4.00 was placed on adult Great Horned Owls and $2.00 on fledglings in order to help control these predators where too numerous. According to reports laid before the Commission, Great Horned Owls, one of the worst enemies of wildlife, are very abundant in some sections, and it is hoped their numbers will be reduced sufficiently during the year in question.

The present Goshawk bounty, $2 for adults and $1 for fledglings, was unchanged except that beginning July 15 the reward on these hawks, very few of which are found in the State in the Summer, will be paid during the full year. At present bounty is paid on Goshawks between Nov. 1 and May 31 only.

The Commission voted to continue the current reward of $4.00 on gray foxes. In view of the high prices their furs brought this past winter, the Game Commission felt that no additional monetary inducement would cause the removal of greater numbers of red foxes from certain sections. According to President Leffler, the Commission believes that the greatly increased popularity of fox hunting, and the intensified measures being applied by the Commission's entire field department and others concerned, will provide effective control measures in areas where needed.

New Jersey lake fishing . . . according to Ollie Hobbs, Jersey lakes are producing some pickerel fishing at the present. He brought two home the other day, both measuring over 22 inches. Remember, you need a New Jersey non-resident license to fish these lakes.

County sportsmen to meet . . . in Perkasie, June 6th, when delegates from Bucks County's organized sportsmen's associations will meet in monthly session of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. Movies and refreshments will follow the business meeting.

GERMAN-OPERATED RAILWAY FACILITIES IN OCCUPIED FRANCE AND BALKANS ARE HAMMERED

British Bombers in Fourth Successive Two-Way Assault
Which Coincides With Additional Strikes Against
Military Installations in Northwestern Europe.

By John E. Lee

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 2.—(INS)—German-operated railway facilities both in occupied France and the Balkans were hammered early today by British bombers in the fourth successive two-way assault which coincided with additional strikes against vital Nazi military installations in Northwestern Europe.

While British-based night raiders struck at the Saumur railroad yards southwest of Tours, for the second straight day, Italy-based planes hit at rail targets near Szolnok which is southeast of Budapest.

RAF Wellingtons, Halifaxes and Liberators carried out the strike against the Hungarian targets, while the British-based planes hit at Saumur and enemy military objectives in the so-called "invasion coast" area of France.

The Air Ministry, amplifying a previous announcement that the RAF bombers were over "occupied territory" during the night, said that "military objectives" near the French invasion coast were hit again. For the last few days, those same Nazi installations have undergone their most savage bombardments of the war.

The railroad yards of Saumur, some 38 miles southwest of Tours, again were raided. They had been hit along with two other key French rail centers 24 hours before.

Speedy plywood mosquito bombers bombed an objective in Nazi-occupied Denmark, while other planes placed mines in enemy-held waters.

Not a single British plane was lost in the widespread night operations.

Pope Expresses Hope Rome Will Be Spared

LONDON, June 2.—(INS)—Pope Pius XII today reiterated his hope that Rome will be spared from the ravages of war, adding that "whoever lifts a hand" against the Eternal City would be "guilty of matricide."

Addressing the College of Cardinals the Pope, in a broadcast over the Vatican radio and heard in London, said:

"We hope that, at all costs, Rome will be saved from becoming a theatre of war. In the past year the conflict has reached grave and atrocious proportions.

"Whoever lifted a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide."

The supreme pontiff went on to declare that "in the midst of much pain" greater care has been taken in air attacks "against inner areas of Rome."

"Our mission at the present moment," he declared, "is to save the family of mankind and prepare it for a saner future."

The world's future aim, the Pope said, should be to insure a peace which is "tolerable for all nations."

"We hope," he declared, "that, whilst the war is proceeding and whilst methods of warfare are growing ever fiercer, this sound consideration will not eventually be replaced by vengeance and anger."

Co. Commissioners Answer Questions for Realtors

DOYLESTOWN, June 2.—Bucks County Real Estate Board had as its guests at a "tax session" last evening a number of Bucks County officials. Included were the three county commissioners, John S. Roberts, Jr., president, Simon K. Moyer and Edward C. Hancock; also Ernest H. Harvey, chief clerk for the commissioners; Isaac J. VanArtsdalen, Esq., president of Bucks County Bar Association and attorney for the commissioners; and Edward Watson, chief assessor of the county.

President of the county realtors group, Richard W. Fechtenburg, of Eddington, presided at the regular meeting and also at the session of the board of directors which preceded the dinner in the Fountain House.

A number of questions revolving about taxes, assessments, etc., were thoroughly discussed. The realtors sought information of the county commissioners on a variety of items, such as tax collections, tax sales and deeds, standardized tax procedure, and other matters. The viewpoint of the commissioners on a number of these subjects was explained by Mr. VanArtsdalen.

The purpose of the realty board, it was stated, is to endeavor to work out a simpler method of handling certain tax matters, one improvement being possibility of one tax notice instead of three.

A resolution was passed to the effect that the county real estate board after consultation with the county commissioners will in turn present a resolution to the Penna. Real Estate Board at its October convention, asking state authorities to appoint a commission to study the entire tax situation.

The realtors plan for their annual picnic to be held on June 28th at the home of the secretary, Otto Grupp, Jr., of Eddington. Games, swimming, canoeing, rowing will be included. A Bucks County Smorgasbord is also to be an attraction.

Over 100 Farmers Bid On Garden Tractor

DOYLESTOWN, June 2.—Owing to O. P. A. rulings concerning ceiling prices for farm machinery, bidders of the soil in Bucks county entered the gambling stage yesterday in a frantic effort to get a much-needed tractor.

At least a hundred of the 400 farmers and farm women attending a public sale of farm machinery at the home of Paul H. Schmitz, near Rushland, bid on a garden tractor. A lot more could have been received for it but the ceiling price was set at $117 by the O. P. A. and Auctioneer E. Newlin Brown and Agent J. Carroll Molloy, of Doylestown, placed the names of all the bidders in a hat and the purchaser was selected by lot.

FOR THE PAST TEN YEARS WE HAVE BEEN THREATENED, CAJOLED, AND FINALLY PUSHED DOWN PATH TO DICTATORSHIP, SAYS SPEAKER

Harold J. Poad, divisional sales manager of the American Sales Book Co., was the guest speaker before the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club in the Elks' Home, yesterday afternoon, when he spoke on the subject, "Trends In America."

"For the past ten years we have been alternately threatened, cajoled, and finally pushed down the path to dictatorship. That breath-taking statement comes from one of our leading senators of today, none other than Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia," Poad said.

The address of Mr. Poad follows: "There are some dates in history which stand out vividly in our memory. Whenever we hear the year 1492 we immediately think of the discovery of America, by Columbus.

"We associate other dates in like manner. For instance, Dec. 25th we know as Christmas, the birthday of Christ. Washington's birthday of Feb. 22nd requires no special talent of memory. 1918 is a year long to be remembered—the end of World

1750 American Planes Pummel Pas de Calais Area

London—A vast armada of some 1750 American warplanes pummelled the Pas de Calais area of the French invasion coast by daylight today. The aerial fleet, including some 1000 bombers and 750 fighters, carried out its assault on the heels of the fourth straight two-way night blasting of the continent.

The after dark assaults were aimed at German railway and military installations in occupied France and the Balkans and were executed by RAF formations from Britain and warplanes of the Mediterranean command.

Hazy weather, which had granted the continent a brief respite from heavy daylight bombing yesterday lifted this morning and coastal observers in the neighborhood of Folkestone on the English Channel said bombers and fighters swarmed toward northern France about noon.

The planes headed in various directions, the fighters mainly toward the Cap Gris Nez area while two big formations of bombers headed southwest toward the Boulogne sector.

Shortly after high-flying medium bombers swept directly across the central portion of the Dover straits, heavy explosions were heard emanating from the oft-bombed "invasion coast" of France.

Germans Get Setback in Italy

Naples—Badly-mauled German divisions in Italy suffered a two-phased setback today when American troops of the Fifth Army crashed their way into Velletri, keystone of the Nazis' Rome defense line and smashed the main escape route of the Germans to the south.

Fifth Army troops slashed through heavy resistance to cut the Via Cassilina near the German stronghold of Valmontone, blocking the main escape road for hordes of Nazis streaming up from the south.

Fierce fighting was touched off in the streets of semi-encircled Velletri when Yank spearheads smashed their way into the city limits.

Both these sectors are the most important of the remaining German defenses south of Rome, extending from Avezzano to the Tyrrhenian Sea.

Bits of Hilarity

AWARDS ARE GIVEN

Members of the class of 1944, Bristol high school, staged a unique program for their class night last evening, and guests at the performance in Bristol high school auditorium found themselves practically in the midst of activities attendant upon "Hellzapoppin'."

Some ticket holders were ushered at once to their seats, while others were escorted to the stage, required to march across the stage in view of the assembling audience, then finally given seats in the auditorium. Many found balloons bursting close by their ears, necks craned as "arguments" ensued over seating arrangements, and popcorn was not only munched but came floating through the air on occasion. The manner in which the good-natured audience entered into the spirit of the entire evening aided greatly in the details outlined by the graduates.

Staff Sgt. Rice Has Had Thrills in Pacific

A soldier, whose family resides in Bristol Township, has had many and varied experiences since his arrival in the South Pacific theatre of war, over a year ago.

The young man, Staff Sgt. George Rice, an engineer-gunner on a Mitchell bomber, has piled up over 50 combat missions and has flown over every enemy stronghold in the area.

The squadron of which Rice is a member, had the distinction of being the first medium bombardment unit in the 13th Army Air Force to operate in the South Pacific theatre. Spending the first three months in the systematic destruction of enemy shipping, the Mitchells succeeded in cutting the enemy life line in that area. One strike, which is still the topic of conversation among Rice and his companions is the attack they made on an enemy cruiser late last summer.

A flight of eight Mitchell bombers looking for trouble, sighted the Jap warship, and immediately swept down for the kill. Rice took his station for his primary duty of aerial gunner, and manned the twin machine guns in his compartment. As his plane released the bombs and skipped over the doomed cruiser, he let loose a long burst of tracer and incendiary bullets, many of which made their mark. It wasn't two minutes after the last plane had made its attack that the ship began its voyage to the bottom.

As the battle for Solomon Islands continued, Rice participated in every major blow against enemy strongholds from New Georgia to the Bismarck Archipelago. Medium altitude and low level bombing and strafing attacks became just part of a day's work. The proof of their effectiveness lays in the present unhappy plight of the Japanese in the South Pacific.

Sgt. Rice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rice. He graduated from Langhorne high school prior to his entrance in the Army in January, 1942. He has been presented the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf Clusters for meritorious achievement while participating on combat missions.

WIN THE WAR

HARLINGEN ARMY AIR
FIELD, Texas, June 2.—Another large class of Army Gunners to guard Army Air Forces' bombers was graduated from the AAF Training Command aerial gunnery school here and among the qualified "Sharpshooters of the Sky" was Pfc. Leroy A. Bittenbender, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bittenbender, Bristol R. D. No. 1, Old Rodgers Road.

At brief graduation exercises held here he received a pair of gunner's wings as well as a promotion in grade. Unless retained at Harlingen as an instructor, he will join an aerial combat team.

A comprehensive seven-weeks course in every phase of aerial gunnery warfare prepared him for his place in America's stepped-up air offensive. Besides learning to fire every type weapon from camera guns to the deadly caliber .50 Brownings, he studied turret manipulation, aircraft recognition and was required to tear down and assemble weapons while blindfolded. He climaxed the course by firing on towed targets from Liberator bombers under simulated combat conditions.

Fire company searchlights were used in the evening and aided in locating Mrs. Johnson's body in about two feet of water.

Surviving besides the husband and brother are Mrs. Johnson's son, Pvt. Albert A. Johnson, of the Marine Corps in the South Pacific; her mother, Mrs. Laura Cooper, of Morrisville, and several aunts and uncles.

She was born in Morrisville, daughter of the late John H. Cooper. Her husband is a night watchman at a store in Trenton, N. J.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at two p. m. from a funeral chapel, 45 North Pennsylvania avenue. Interment will be in the Morrisville Cemetery. Friends may call this evening at the chapel from seven to nine o'clock.

FREE ENTERPRISE

The Indiana Manufacturers' Association recognizes that when war orders cease to provide employment, business must utilize all of its ingenuity and resourcefulness to assure plenty of work at adequate wages. Business is planning to that end now and hundreds of industries are reported to have products in the blueprint stage that they never manufactured before.

The extent to which this program can be adopted depends, the Indiana Manufacturers' Association believes, upon what government does and the attitude of organized labor's leaders. The association has issued a statement in which it urges that free enterprise be given a fair trial. It says:

"The issues should be clearly defined now so that people in all walks of life may decide between government control of everything and everybody, and free competitive enterprise. Otherwise we may enter the postwar period on the false assumption that free enterprise will supply jobs, only to discover that the American system is not able to function because of restrictions beyond its control."

Left-wingers are determined that the hold government now has on business shall not be relinquished. The leaders of this school, having had little practical experience of their own, seem to feel that prosperity and the good of labor depend upon continued interference by boards, bureaus and commissions.

Here, as the Indiana Manufacturers' Association declares, is a clear issue that people in all walks of life should decide. The question is whether government shall continue to restrict and hamper free enterprise, or give it a chance to take up the postwar slack.

APPROACHING HARVEST

There is a thrill to the sight of heading wheat that is above description of even those who have experienced it for years. When beards peep through boots and the stalks, swayed by wind as waves on seas, begin their rustling songs, people in the wheat country spot their thoughts on a coming harvest.

They are doing that in Kansas today. First reports spark the imagination. Supt. R. C. Wildenboer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, reflects a harvest atmosphere after a wheat inspection trip. Wherever he went the talk is wheat, how much it will yield to the acre, what it will test and protein content.

In two weeks the harvest will be under way in southern Kansas, and although much can happen to some wheat in two weeks, it cannot happen to all the wheat. The great expanse of prairie land will yield a bumper crop, the rail executive feels certain. Empty cars have been started to the wheatlands and division superintendents are wondering if there will be train crews to haul strings of loaded grain cars to market.

Most women in industry will return home after the war, a survey discloses. Expecting to find the dishes washed.

GOOD SEALS HELP TO HALT FAILURES IN FAMILY CANNING

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

Are you ready to can asparagus? Asparagus in Bucks County is now being cut. Let's can some of this vegetable.

Many difficulties that homemakers encountered in their canning last year were due to wartime jars, lids and rubbers. Manufacturers have been studying problems brought to their attention and offer some suggestions on using canning equipment successfully.

Difficulty in getting seals was probably the most common complaint among homemakers. In many jars the seal is made at the edge or opening of the jar instead of on the shoulder such as the old type mason jar. This means that the edge must be even and free from nicks and cracks. To detect flaws, run your finger around the edge or turn the jar upside down on a table to see if it sets evenly.

Occasionally a metal lid with composition rubber ring attached is too large for the screw band. Before using, slip the metal lid into the screw band to see if the lid fits in tightly. If the lid is too large, the screw band won't exert the same amount of pressure on all parts of the jar edge and a perfect seal won't be made.

Commercial jars, such as those used for salad dressing or peanut butter, may be used for canning fruits and tomatoes. These jars do not have a wide shoulder as regular jars for canning have so will not hold in place a rubber ring and zinc top lid. The edge seal lids, such as the metal lid with rubber ring attached or the three-piece cover with glass lid, small rubber ring, and metal screw band, should be used.

To prevent screw bands from rusting during storage, remove them from the jars 12 to 24 hours after the jars have cooled. By removing the bands, the lids also can be tested to see if a good seal was made.

Filling jars too full is another cause for poor seals. Pint jars should be filled to within a half inch from the top and quart jars one inch from the top. If jars are too full, the food may run over the neck of the jar and prevent an edge seal type of lid from sealing. Always wipe off carefully the neck of the jar with a clean cloth before putting on the lid. Small particles of food on the top of the jar may prevent a perfect seal.

Another complaint from homemakers is that rubber rings used last year gave foods an odor. To prevent an occurrence of that this year, it is suggested that the rubber rings be scrubbed with a brush in hot soapy water. Then for each dozen rings add a tablespoon of soda to a quart of water and boil the rings 5 minutes in the solution. Rinse well before using. Start with fresh soda and water for each lot of rings.

Write to Mrs. Mary Jacoby Fleetham, Home Economics Representative, Agricultural Extension Association, Doylestown, Pa., for a copy of the bulletin on Canning Fruits and Vegetables.

WOODBINE, N. J.—(INS)—Two major oil companies have leased ground in southern New Jersey for test drilling operations. Dr. Joseph Levenson, mayor of Woodbine, revealed today. Sun Oil and Sinclair are understood to be paying 10 cents an acre a year for drilling rights, with land owners to get as much as 12½ per cent of the yield should wells come in.

For the Past 10 Years We Have Been Pushed Toward Dictatorship, Says Speaker

"There are three parts to our Government—the Legislative, to make the laws—the Executive, to carry out the laws—the Judiciary, to enforce the laws.

"The first step to gain control was the Supreme Court packing. Fortunately, we had a Congress, which wouldn't stand for that kind of business. They wouldn't stand for it, because we flooded them with letters, and telegrams, opposed to such a movement. Still, by reason of the Administration's long term of office, all except two of the Justices have now been appointed by the President. (By the way—who is that President?)

"The next step was the attempted Senatorial purge, designed to prevent the re-election of those who did not see eye to eye with the President. Those who had refused to be yes men. This time, the public, aroused to indignation, handed out a stinging defeat by re-electing as you remember, Senator Tydings of Maryland, and Senator George of Georgia. Had this effort of the President succeeded, he would have continued his purge to defeat every member of the Congress who dared express disagreement with his wishes.

"Now when this failed, folks, there was the attempt to abolish the office of the Comptroller General—the only independent auditing office of our whole government. Here, too, there was a defeat for which we can all be thankful.

"But that desire for power, that craving and longing, was still there—still determined. An ingenious method of by-passing Congress was conceived. The real power of Congress over the executive department is the control of the purse. The New Deal overcame this by creating government corporations, which are allowed to issue bonds, and disperse public funds, as the President sees fit. There are 57 of these corporations today—and the thirty billions of dollars which they have spent, has never been authorized by Congress. That is something to think about.

"In the past three years the government has spent twenty-five billions of dollars, in building plants and facilities for industrial production. The Auditor General has never been allowed to go over the books.

"In the past ten years, the records show that over 3600 executive orders have been issued by the President. Do you realize that this is many times the number of executive orders that have been issued from the time of our first President, George Washington, down to the time of the present administration.

"By contrast to these 3600 executive orders, only 4300 public laws were enacted by Congress during the same period of time. These figures clearly define the path about which I have been speaking. Practically one executive order for every law enacted by Congress.

"Some of the orders issued are of the type not to the liking of the American people. The recent coal strike is an example. The miners desired higher wages—they struck—now very few people will disagree with the fact that the miners were entitled to more money. They were working for the maximum amount of $45 a week as compared to war industry employees making double that amount. All negotiations broke down until Mr. Lewis stepped into the back door of the White House—the result—the miners were granted the same identical raise in pay which had previously been refused by the government agencies who should have handled it.

"History demonstrates that the deepest impulse of bureaucracy is to grow—to take in more territory—extend its authority—expand its payroll. Let's see how well this lesson was learned.

"The development of the OPA is a good example. It began in April 1941 with a staff of 84. By its first birthday the staff numbered more than 8,000. By its second anniversary it had a nation wide network of 198 offices, employing 90,000 persons.

"Suppose we take a look at the number of Federal employees. Here is a real eye opener. Our Federal Government today now carries more than 3,300,000 employees on its payroll, exclusive of all military operations. That's a lot of people. Can you picture it? To get a better idea let's think in terms of the Franklin Field Stadium right here in Philadelphia. The stadium will hold 70,000 people. Now to accommodate the number of employees on the Government payroll means that it would be necessary to fill Franklin Stadium 47 times.

"The State Government of Ohio employs 25,000 people while the Federal Government in that same State employs 90,000 full time workers. Here in Pennsylvania the State employs only 44,500 and the Federal Government finds it necessary to use 215,000. A ratio of almost 5 to 1.

"Winston Churchill in the early stages of the war said the following about the RAF: 'Never in the history of the world had so many owed so much to so few.' Someone the other day made the following statement about the number of Federal employees: 'Never before have so many done so little so expensively so long.'

"Now some of you may be wondering why I am talking on a subject such as this. I want to make it perfectly clear that I am not interested in politics. I have no political ambitions, neither elective nor appointive. If I were interested in promoting one party as against the other I certainly wouldn't waste time in my own county of Montgomery trying to sell the Republican party here—you know local conditions as well as I do. If I were trying to promote the Democratic party I think I'd stay as far away as possible from this same county.

"I am however interested in the future of our country and I am selfish enough in my own future to be concerned. Years ago it was possible for a man to work hard and by careful planning and frugal living be able to provide for the days of retirement or old age, for himself and his family. That's one of the first laws of nature. But can we make such plans with the trends of today with some of the figures you have just heard?

"In 1933 the cost of the Federal employees on the pay-roll amounted to $75,000,000 a month. The cost of this program today is $522,600,000, or an increase of $447,600,000 a month. This adds up to the staggering sum of $5,364,000,000 a year for just the increase over what our costs were in 1933. That's the cost of the employees on the pay-roll—not the war debt. Instead of looking for new ways of raising money—now ways of increasing taxes—a timely step and in the right direction would be the elimination of this costly program. It is costing every taxpayer in America $125 a year.

"Now we might dismiss some of these figures by saying that we are at war—that they are necessary—and that they are of a temporary nature only. Unfortunately we cannot be consoled by this suggestion because we have found from experience it doesn't work that way.

"We recall vividly that during the period 1933-1936 every new program was established as an emergency. That within a reasonable length of time they could be abandoned, done away with. Instead, the depression emergency merged smoothly with the greater war emergency and now we hear the war emergency will be merged with the greater peace effort. Rationing will be continued and price control will be continued.

"A study of some of the European countries, Germany and Italy for instance, discloses that confusion is the greatest destroyer of morale. One of the greatest weaknesses of our national morale at the moment is the feeling of doubt and fear, arising out of confusion, a confusion which affects not only the whole of the home front, but the whole prospect of peace, demobilization and readjustment.

"The people are confused.

"They are confused by the existence of 13 agencies handling labor problems. They are confused by the long, incredible muddling over manpower and Selective Service. The recent experience is one of which we are all aware. I have had several men who have broken up their homes, sold their cars, sent their families back to their fathers and mothers, and then at the last minute told they weren't needed.

"Look at the 4-F uncertainty for example. Those people don't know—and older men in the draft brackets as a whole don't know what plans to make.

"The confusion as to whether there was a shortage of gas, requiring limited traveling—or whether the shortage of rubber was responsible. We still don't know. OPA Administrator Prentiss Brown makes one statement. Petroleum Administrator Ickes makes another.

"The press is currently full of stories and conflict—fighting and bickering between top-flight administrators of the Federal Government. There has been failure to mark out clear lines of responsibility and power for the President's subordinates. Arthur Krock of the New York Times reports that a friend of the President told him—the boss either appoints one man to do four jobs, or four men to do one job—and often, he does both.

"The threat of Government competition is one every man in this room should be concerned about. There are nine Federal Housing and Construction Agencies, sixteen Federal Business and Banking Agencies—and four Federal Transportation agencies. These are only a few. There are many others—such as synthetic rubber and aluminum.

"Now this same New Deal crowd is trying to prove through the courts that all insurance is commerce between the States. You need not be told this is a basic untruth—yet they are still trying to force it down our throats. Once proved, however, insurance too, will come under the control of the Government.

"Pretty soon now, you are going to hear a great deal about swapping horses in the middle of the stream. A lot of new promises will be injected—a lot of new promises will be made—as a diversion—a smoke screen. However the tide has turned. There is evidence of it on every side.

"Recently Congress gave the President four setbacks in a row—the soldiers vote—National Service—subsidies and taxes. The evidence in the State of Colorado—where a Republican was elected to Congress—the first time this has happened since 1930. And the men of the President's own party are getting fed up. Not long ago we heard an explosion in Congress by the majority leader in the Senate, Mr. Alben Barkley, in protest against the veto of the tax bill.

"No, gentlemen—there is no need to change horses in this great country of ours. The horse is fine—it's the driver that needs to be changed.

"1944 may be known in history as the year World War II ended—but it can be known as the year dictatorship ended in this great republic of ours. Now you ask me—what can you do about it?—that's a very natural question—what can you do about it? Well, I'll tell you one thing you can do—you can start thinking about it this very moment—you can be very conscious of the fact that you have an important part to play—you can speak to your friends and the people you do business with—and your Congressman—whatever you do, don't forget him. You can tell him in no uncertain terms that you are sick and tired of this one-man government—that you have had your bellies full of dictatorship.

"Now, if you will do this—you will have every reason to be proud of the part which you shall have taken—to preserve this—your country—and your kind of government—and your children will be very, very grateful."

Sale of two large parcels of real estate located near the center of Perkasis, by the Sellersville Building & Loan Association, brought to a climax one of the largest exchanges of real estate in the borough in recent years.

It also split up a tract that had been conducted under one business organization for many years. The former hay press building, a garage adjoining it and two dwelling houses, all occupying half an acre of ground, were sold to Stanley Rotenberger, Quakertown, for $5,000.

The other parcel, including all land on the other side of Main street and used by the Sellersville Fuel & Supply Company, was purchased at the same auction by Miss Ruth E. Smith, North Main street, Sellersville.

Young Men of 17

May again join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve

ENLISTMENT in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve is once more open to qualified young Americans . . . who want to win their wings on the "greatest team in the world"—an AAF air combat crew.

In April, thanks to the air-mindedness of America's youth, the AAF's personnel program was well ahead of schedule. More than enough men were in training, and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, to meet scheduled quotas for combat crews. At the same time, the need for men in other branches of the army was urgent. Therefore, opportunities to join the AAF—including the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve—were suspended.

As the Commanding General pointed out, the suspension of enlistments in the Reserve was intended only as a temporary measure. Accordingly, effective June 1, enlistments have again been opened in the 17-year-old Enlisted Reserve in order to insure a sufficient number of qualified individuals for training this fall.

The AAF is a Team

Today, the AAF is the largest, most powerful air force in the world. Fighting side by side with the planes of our Navy and our Allies, it has won control of the air in every theatre—and has carried the war to the military and industrial hearts of Germany and Japan. It is during the enemy to "come up and fight." Yet its losses have been less than anyone had anticipated or even dared to hope.

That all this has been accomplished is due, in large measure, to the fact that the

AAF air combat crew is more than just planes and men. The combat crew is a team . . . the greatest fighting team the world has ever seen . . . with Gunners, Bombardiers, Navigators and Pilots flying and fighting together, to win.

And any young man who wants AAF wings should keep this ideal of teamwork uppermost in his mind. It is the key to AAF successes in battle. It will be the key to his own success in the AAF.

If you want to fly with the AAF, you may apply at any AAF Examining Board for enrollment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. Upon passing the preliminary qualifying physical and mental tests, you will become a member of the U. S. Army Air Forces—on inactive duty. This means that you will not be called for training until you have reached your 18th birthday. If you are at work you may remain on the job until you are 18. If you are in high school, you may elect to finish the semester you are in when you become 18. If you are a high school graduate, not over 17 years and 9 months, you may elect to take advantage of the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, which provides free college training for men approaching military age.

When called, you will first be given "basic" training. During this period, you will take "aptitude" tests to determine whether you will be classified for training as Gunner, Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot.

Your Place on the AAF Team

If you have an outstandingly high apti-

tude rating for a particular position, you may be given an opportunity to compete for the classification that you prefer. But it is important to remember that all jobs on the AAF team are vitally important . . . that air combat crews not only are chosen from the very cream of the nation's young men, but that each seat in every plane must be filled by the man best qualified to fill it.

Gunners go into actual combat as non-commissioned officers. In addition to being the world's best aerial marksmen, gunners may qualify as trained technicians—in radio, armament or airplane mechanics. Pilots, Navigators, and Bombardiers are graduated from training as 2nd Lieutenants or Flight Officers.

Your job, and your rank, in the AAF will depend upon your own demonstrated abilities. For full information as to qualifying for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, see your nearest AAF Examining Board or local Army Recruiting Station.

For Pre-Aviation Training

Whether or not you have yet reached 17, you can begin now to prepare yourself to qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. See your local Civil Air Patrol officers about C.A.P. Cadet Training . . . also see your High School principal or adviser about recommended courses in the Air Service Division of the High School Victory Corps. Both offer excellent pre-aviation training . . . and help point the way to AAF wings.

As we come into Thy presence, Eternal Father, it is with a deep realization of our need for a strength which is more than human. We find ourselves insufficient for the tasks of the day. Our vision is so narrow, our judgment so faulty, our wisdom so incomplete. We are becoming more and more conscious of our shortcomings and our failures, and if we recognize them, how grievous must they appear in Thy sight. Forgive us, and help us, we pray. Teach us that we are strong, when in weakness we throw ourselves upon Thee. Teach us that we shall enjoy the greatest liberty when we are in most complete bondage to Thee. Teach us that to lose self is to gain power and influence. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

CUTTING CORNERS SAVES TIME IN THE EXECUTION OF WORK

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham

(Home Economics Representative)
Bucks County homemakers who are streamlining their work are pleased to find how much time and how many steps they can save, reports Mrs. Fleetham, home economics extension representative. Here are some of the things they are doing.

They are asking each member of the family to co-operate by keeping his toys, books, and clothes in their proper places. Older persons are also making their beds before going to school or to work.

Cleaning, laundry, and kitchen equipment and supplies are being grouped near places where they will be used. Cupboard and refrigerator shelves are being arranged so the contents can be reached without unnecessary shifting of dishes and containers. Homemakers also are watching how they do small jobs, such as paring potatoes, to see if they can improve their methods. It is the saving of time and energy doing the little things that add up to the extra hour or so saved each day. An hour saved every day over a year's time means 15 days or the length of a two weeks' vacation.

McDEVITT-DEAN IN PITCHERS' DUEL ON BENSALAM FIELD

Voltz Nine Noses Out The Badenhausen Team To Win Game

FINAL SCORE IS 4 TO 3

McDevitt Allows Five Hits; Dean Gives Seven

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 2.—Joe McDevitt and Paul Dean participated in a pitching duel last evening on the Bensalem high school field as the Voltz-Texaco team nosed out Badenhausen, 4-3, in a Bristol Suburban League contest.

McDevitt allowed the Baddies five hits while Dean permitted the winners seven hits. Two errors in the seventh inning gave the gas-clevers the tilt after the iron-workers had deadlocked the score in the last half of the sixth.

The Voltz team was first to score when Ritter singled and Dewsnap doubled in the third and both came home on Leigh's hit. The lead was short-lived, however, for in the last half of the inning the Cornwells team tied it when after Ervin and Stark had hit safely, Trapp came through with a triple.

Voltz went ahead again in the fifth when McDevitt socked a long triple to left and was "squeezed" home on Dewsnap's bunt. Badenhausen again deadlocked the score in the sixth when Stackhouse tripled and scored on a hit by Fraul.

Dougherty reached base on an error in the seventh and advanced on an infield out. When Dewsnap's grounder was muffed up, Dougherty crossed the plate with the winning tally.

As the Alcoa team won over Diamond, 3-2, on the Rohm and Haas field, the league race tightened up with only one game separating first and last place. Joe Sagolla started on the mound for Diamond and was relieved by Danny Keegan in the fourth. "Bill" Foster, of Alcoa, held the Diamond lads to three hits.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Salt water fishing . . . if there are any fish in Great Bay off the Tuckerton wireless station they are still there, Ralph and I fished it Sunday. Plenty of balloon fish and eels, but no croakers. Parties at other shore points reported like catches. Probably a little early yet for good bay fishing there, Ralph claimed we fished the wrong time of day, used the wrong bait, and fished the wrong spots!

New bounty rates . . . for the year beginning July 15, the earliest date any change can become effective under the law, were established by the Game Commission at its recent meeting.

The bounty on weasels was increased to $1.00. A reward of $4.00 was placed on adult Great Horned Owls and $2.00 on fledglings in order to help control these predators where too numerous. According to reports laid before the Commission, Great Horned Owls, one of the worst enemies of wildlife, are very abundant in some sections, and it is hoped their numbers will be reduced sufficiently during the year in question.

The present Goshawk bounty, $2 for adults and $1 for fledglings, was unchanged except that beginning July 15 the reward on these hawks, very few of which are found in the State in the Summer, will be paid during the full year. At present bounty is paid on Goshawks between Nov. 1 and May 31 only.

The Commission voted to continue the current reward of $4.00 on gray foxes. In view of the high prices their furs brought this past winter, the Game Commission felt that no additional monetary inducement would cause the removal of greater numbers of red foxes from certain sections. According to President Leffer, the Commission believes that the greatly increased popularity of fox hunting, and the intensified measures being applied by the Commission's entire field department and others concerned, will provide effective control measures in areas where needed.

New Jersey lake fishing . . . according to Ollie Hobbs, Jersey lakes are producing some pickered fishing at the present. He brought two home the other day, both measuring over 22 inches. Remember, you need a New Jersey non-resident license to fish these lakes.

County sportsmen to meet . . . in Perkasie, June 6th, when delegates from Bucks County's organized sportsmen's associations will meet in monthly session of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. Movies and refreshments will follow the business meeting.
